PRODUCER'S COMMENTS.

JOHN S. WOOD.

For our first play of 1951 we offer you "On Monday Next," one of the lightest comedies we have presented in recent years.

This play had a long and successful run in London at the Comedy Theatre when Henry Kendal appeared as Harry Blacker, Olga Lindo as Maud Barron and Richard Goolden as the Author.

As it has only been released this month, we are among the first amateurs to produce the play, and we have had a letter of good wishes from the author. Mr Philip King, who expresses his hope of being able to attend one of our performances.

To tell you what the play is about in advance would perhaps be a mistake so suffice it to say that it is quite an unusual comedy which we have all enjoyed rehearsing. The author obviously has a flair for character drawing, natural comedy dialogue, and neat, well contrived situations.

The cast includes a number of members who are well known to Little Theatre audiences and who have proved popular with our patrons in the past and I hope very much that you and your friends will enjoy "On Monday Next."

Our next production which opens on Friday, February 16th, for eight nights, is to be "Bonaventure" by Charlotte Hastings. This is another new play, presented for the first time in Southport, and it is to be produced by Rachel Crossley.

"Bonaventure" is an excellent play which contrasts well with the rest of our programme this season, and I should like to commend it to you in the belief that you will enjoy it.

JOHN S. WOOD,
Chairman S.D.C.
